ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

For valuable assistance rendered in the preparation of this volume, the Maryland State Planning Commission and the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, formerly the Maryland Geological Survey, are deeply indebted to its Advisory Joint Committee comprised of William S. Hamill, Director of the Maryland Development Bureau of the Baltimore Association of Commerce; Edward Bennett Mathews, Director of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources; and I. Alvin Pasarew, Director of the Maryland State Planning Commission; and also to Charles T. Berry, of the Johns Hopkins University, who gave generously of his time and effort in the preparation of the manuscript.

The Advisory Joint Committee is grateful to Horace E. Flack, Director of the Department of Legislative Reference; Francis D. Friedlein, former Executive Secretary of the Maryland State Planning Commission; William F. Childs, Jr., Director of the Traffic Division of the State Roads Commission; Gerald L. V. Lund, State Department of Budget and Procurement; William G. Smith, Western Union Company; R. W. Kanzler, Postal Telegraph; J. H. Leonard, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company; and Nathan N. Paskoff, Supervisor of the Work Projects Administration's personnel, for their unstinted services and cooperation in making possible this painstaking research.

For the excellent clerical and research personnel made available by the Work Projects Administration, the Maryland State Planning Commission and the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources are especially indebted.

Figures in parentheses () pertaining to population, elevation bearing and distance to nearest place are estimated.

The descriptive terms "city," "town," "village," etc. which immediately follow the place name in bold letters were determined by their population: places having populations from 1 to 300 persons were designated as "village"; 300 or above were designated as "town." In cases where the Charter of Incorporation specifically designates a place as a "city" or "town" the designated term was used in the text. Population figures shown without parentheses are 1940 census figures. Those figures in parentheses are estimated.

The abbreviations which appear in capitals at the end of an individual listing refer to quadrangle designations established by the U. S. Geological Survey. (See frontispiece)

For the sources of information and key to railroad abbreviations and quadrangle designations see Appendix, pages 237 and 238.
